Bingham Gym Scene of Carnival Weekend Activities Featuring Carnival Ball and Three One-Act Plays

PLAYS SEEN AS TREMENDOUS SUCCESS

One of the more recent additions to the Outing Club's Winter Carnival is the three one-act plays which were presented at the William Bingham Gymnasium Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock.

The first of the plays was a farce, "It Happens Each Spring," dealing with the troubles and trials brought to his long suffering parents, Barbara Keenan, and David Farrington, by David Kneeland. His successive array of girl friends includes Peggy Champlain, a normal high school girl, Sally Adams as a sophisticated faker from New York, and Claire Macy, who appears only briefly, but very effectively as a southern belle.

The second play, "More Perfect Union," is in a more serious vein, dealing with racial intolerance and draws its name from the preamble to the constitution. Janice Lindquist plays the wealthy young snob, while Betty Backus plays the girl "from across the tracks." Those in the supporting roles are Joy Smith, Barbara Pretty, Nancy Van, Laura Belle Bennett, Rob-in Buck, Grace Taylor, and Ruth Donahue.

"You're Fired," the third play, is a hilarious farce about the adventures of Edward Hickox as Johnnie, who tries to get fired so he won't have to marry Gay, Eunice Lane. Grace Lenseff plays the understanding secretary, Dick Dysart the choleric business tycoon, Claire Macy the forceful union executive, and Mark Rines the tax collector.

Mr. Thompson, dramatic coach and head of the college English department, once more efficiently selected, casted, and directed the three plays.

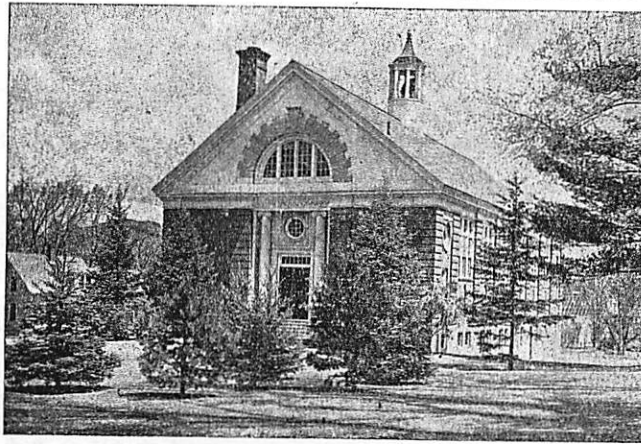

Leland Brown and Ann Cummings took care of the properties and Barbara Dougherty was business manager.

The serious play, "More Perfect Union," was chosen by Mr. Thompson to go, with the complete original cast, to Brunswick, where it will be given in the State one-act play tournament. The winner of the State will then join the New England tournament.

DANCE BAND

A new organization has made itself heard on the Gould campus. We can now boast a dance band. To be sure it has held only two rehearsals but still it shows promise. It started out as a strictly masculine venture, but the boys discovered that their was no pianist in their number so they were forced to admit Jerry Linnell.

GOULD STUDENTS HAVE OPPORTUNITY TO ATTEND COMMUNITY CONCERTS

There have been two Community Concerts held so far this year. The first was held in Rumford on December 12, 1947. At that time, the Community Concert Association presented The Revelers, a group of four singers and a pianist. The members were as follows: Glenn Burris, first tenor; Nino Ventura, second tenor; Rand Smith, baritone; Wilfred Glenn, bass; Paul Vellucci, pianist-arranger. Their program included songs from Shakespeare, piano solos, Broadway show hits, and worldwide favorites. It is interesting to note that all members of the group, past and present, are soloists of established reputation and that the group has made five European tours and has given command performances before British royalty.

The second concert featured the Columbia Concert Trio which is composed of Ariana Brown, violinist; Ardyth Walker, cellist; and Richard Gregor, pianist. Ardyth Walker and Richard Gregor are both graduated from the Juillard School of Music. This concert, too, was held in Rumford on January 27. The concert program included both classical and modern music ranging from Handel, Mendelssohn, Fauri, and Chopin, to Albeniz, who wrote Malaguena, and Dorothy Cadzow. Miss Cadzow arranged a medley of American Folk Tunes especially for the Columbia Concert Trio.

The yearbook can be available before graduation. The seniors, as always, may purchase those with hard covers which will be the senior class colors. Dedication of the yearbook has been voted upon by the staff, but results will not be known until publication.

DANCE CLUB

The modern dance club, with Miss Stallwood as advisor and director, will put on its annual performance at the girls' gym meet in April. The club has sixteen members this year, and is limited to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. All those who were in it during previous years may automatically be members for this year if they wish to. The new members are the following: Ann Lord, Marlene Anderson, Edith White, Adelle Kimball, Sandy Flanders, Betty Backus, Eunice Lane, Laura Bennett, Lidel Maxm, and Rachel Brown. The girls have been divided into two different groups. One is doing "The Rumba Phantasy," and the other is doing "The Ritual Fire Dance." The two groups will soon be combined and start work on a novelty number for a grand-finale at the gym-meet.

CYP CLUB

From January twenty-fifth to February first, the CYP Club celebrated Youth Week. Several members of the club conducted the Sunday service at the Congregational Church, with Barbara Dougherty as general speaker. The Scripture was read by Ruth Donahue and the Responsive Reading by Laura Bennett. Nancy Van told of her experiences at camp last summer and David Kneeland told of the advents at Camp Manitou during his vacation there.

A banquet was given to the CYP Club on Monday evening, January twenty-sixth, and the members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship were invited. Mose Nanagan, football coach at Lewiston High School, was guest speaker and told of a few instances in his career. He also explained what qualities were extremely necessary in becoming a good football player. The evening closed with the Lord's Prayer.

CORONATION HIGHLIGHT OF CARNIVAL BALL

A very pretty Carnival Queen held sway over the Carnival Dance held Friday, February 6, at the William Bingham Gymnasium. The dance began at 8:00 P. M. with Raffell's Orchestra playing. A large crowd attended, including many of the boys on the visiting ski teams and alumni of Gould. After the grand march there was dancing until ten. A short intermission was held, and the coronation march was begun. First came the entrance of Dick Ireland, captain of the ski team, with Larry Stinchfield and Edwin Swain, members. Then the other ski team members, Herbert Hunt, Alfred Norton, Robert Croteau, David Bennett, Dick Marshall, and Bob Adams took their places, with raised ski poles forming arches. Three attendants, Ruth Judkins, Connie Coolidge, and Frances MacRae, entered. Then came the Queen, Barbara Dougherty, with Sally Adams, Gertrude Penner, and Barbara Crockett holding her train.

Last came Susan Boynton, the crown bearer. After Mr. Ireland crowned her, the Queen knighted each member of the ski team in turn. Dick Ireland presented her with a bouquet, and a second grand march was led by the two.

After another short intermission, during which refreshments were served, dancing was resumed, and continued until 12:00 waltz was played.

This dance was sponsored by the Outing Club, under the direction of Edwin Swain, the president. The committees that carried out their work well were as follows: decoration, chairman, Barbara Crockett; refreshment, chairman, Mark Rines; program, chairman, Frances MacRae; clean-up, chairman, Ed Bailey. Miss Stallwood directed and aided all those committees, making for a very successful dance.

MR. IRELAND HEADS DISCUSSION GROUP

A new discussion group got off to a good start on the morning of January 29, with an interesting discussion of the Marshall Plan, other suggestions for European aid, and conservation of natural resources. The discussions were supplemented by various articles on current events placed in the library each week by Mrs. Dyer.

The idea of meeting for a discussion of the latest world affairs was started by Mr. Ireland, and the many who are enthusiastic about the plan hope to meet every Thursday, although there was no meeting last week. Those chosen to lead the group each week are elected the week before.

EDITORIAL

During Carnival Weekend a medley of thoughts follow the pattern of general confusion. It seems to be hard to keep anything organized, no matter how well it is planned. Extra work for everyone, and extra enjoyment to compensate for it, a different program, new and remembered faces visiting here on the campus, all go to make the time exciting, and one to be remembered.

At such times one can't help but notice and appreciate all the people who will go out of their way, giving tirelessly of their efforts to make things successful. How nice it would be if some of the million and one things done without recognition were expounded and the persons given due credit. That seems to be the general way of things, though; the people who work the most receive the least credit. At this time we appreciate people who help, however, and here's an acknowledgment to some, who know who they are.

Patience is a much sought-after, elusive virtue. People seek it and find it, only to lose it on the slightest notice. Coupled with tact, it is something to be proud of, if you are lucky enough to have it. The least the rest of us can do is try our best not to strain it to the breaking point in other people. I hope you have better success than I seem to have.

As a school, we may well be proud of the steps our Student Council and Athletic Council have taken towards showing that Gould really has good sportsmanship. The results of the work they have done is already noticeable, for many members of visiting teams have been impressed with their welcome, and the aura of good will.

There's the flowers; now for the brickbat. One thing, it seems, we need to develop. That is looking at the other side of the question. Somehow we can't seem to see anything but our own views, whereas, if we only paused for a minute, we could see why people say and do the things they do. Things aren't half as unjust or crazy as they seem if we follow them through.

How we envy these miraculous people who seem to be busy all the time, yet have plenty of spare time to help others, or to hear complaints or woes of burdened hearts. Such people are a blessing to any group, and especially it they are willing to lend a helping hand right where it is needed most. While the rest of us complain about the things we have to do, those people get their book reports in on time, have all the information for their grandfather theme, and are way ahead, though they have just as much and more to do. How do they manage?

It won't be long before our collective feet will have to come back down on the ground, and we go to work again at the usual tasks. After all, school work is mostly what we came for, so why are we complaining?

Outstanding Among Us

BARBARA CROCKETT

Barbara Frances Crockett was born at Arlington, Mass., on April 13, 1930. She attended both grammar school and two years of high school there. In high school, she participated in two operettas: "Mikado" and "The Pirates of Penzance."

In 1946 her family moved to North Windham, Maine, and Biff came to Gould as a Junior. She was a Junior representative on the Dormitory Council last year, as well as a member of the Modern Dance Club, the Outing Club, the Girls' Glee Club, and the Baccalaureate choir.

Last year, 1947, her family moved again, this time to Portland. Biff returned to Gould for her Senior year. She has participated in many school activities this year. She is the secretary of the Science Club, Senior representative on the Dormitory Council, head cheerleader, a member of the Girls' Glee Club, and also Varsity Glee Club. She is a member of the Camera Club, the Student Council, the Outing Club, the Modern Dance Club, the Editorial Staff of both the "Academy Herald" and the "Blue and Gold."

In addition to her membership in the previously mentioned organizations, she has served on many committees, such as poster and decoration committees for both the Carnival Ball and the Christmas Ball. She has served on poster committees for many other school activities also.

Biff was an aspirant to the throne of Carnival Queen, and became attendant to the Queen at the recent Carnival Ball.

Her future plans are not yet definite, but she expects to spend two years at Westbrook Junior College. Upon her graduation she hopes to enter some definite field of work, possibly journalism.

Memoirs of Gould

Looking through some Academy Herald circa 1900, we find that in those "good old days" people were much franker in their senior personals than they are today. For instance, we find such vital statistics as height, weight, age, and even shoe size listed under the seniors' names.

In 1900 the Gould basketball team had a very successful season, playing seven games, of which it tied one and won the rest. Although Gould now plays many games with schools farther away, we still play Gorham

LEROY DYMANT, JR.

Lee Dymant was born in Rumford on May 17, 1930. He spent his early childhood in Mexico, Maine, until his parents moved to West Paris in 1938. Here he attended West Paris elementary schools but in 1940 his father accepted a position from the La Veriere drug store chain so they moved to Lewiston where he attended Jordan Grammar School for one year. The next year they moved back to West Paris, where Mr. Dymant operates the West Paris Pharmacy. While spending his freshman year at West Paris

High, Lee served on the editorial board of the Yearbook and on the staff of the school paper. Lee came to Gould as a sophomore and has maintained honor marks since that time. He has been President of the Camera Club for two years, Secretary of the Science Club during his junior year, has been a member of the Academy Herald staff for two years and has served two years on the Blue and Gold staff; this year he is assistant editor of this paper.

He also has been very prominent in the field of music and plays the trombone in the band and orchestra, sings in the varsity and boys' glee clubs, and is a member of the choir.

He has been on the football squad for three years, receiving his letter last fall. He also is the manager of the basketball team.

Next fall he plans to enter the University of Maine where he will study civil engineering.

and Berlin, as we did then.

In an advertisement on the back cover we find the details of the latest men's fashions. "Coats are cut long. Single or double-breasted are equally fashionable. Young men prefer the double-breasted. Gray is the predominating color."

The school seems to have suffered from an epidemic of measles in 1900, just as it did last year.

"On account of the measles it was necessary to close the school for nearly two weeks. This vacation was much enjoyed by those who had already had those 'measly measles,' while the others, well—perhaps they would rather have been attending G. A."

Exactly fifty years ago we find that there were five members on the faculty, and only five in the graduating class. And then in 1898 even as now, students were desired to have good

The Headmaster's Corner

It has been said that a man whose life supports a weaker brother, whose kindness causes another's heart to jump with joy, whose sympathy dulls the pangs of sorrow, whose vigilance helps another to foresee dangers, is one whose life counts as many times as the inspires those with whom he comes in contact. It is the constant endeavor of Gould Academy and its faculty to carry out such thoughts, acts, and suggestions as will inspire its students to usefulness and character.

It is also the lot of a teacher to realize that his efforts are not always accepted in the spirit in which they are made. We often seem cruel and unreasonable and sometimes may be, but again, our intentions are sincere and are meant to save you sorrow or heartaches and are almost surely to be appreciated sometime.

deportment as evidenced by this excerpt from an article about concert given by the quartette. "There is not a shadow of doubt that Gould's Academy stands higher in the estimation of the people of Rumford Falls than it did before the entertainment, and, if we were sure that all the students would have the same gentlemanly and ladylike deportment that these had, it would advance still higher."

Opinions Appreciated

In order to further our knowledge of the English language, or at least certain dialects of it, this month we will take up the word "coeducation." The "co" comes from a Latin prefix meaning jointly, together. The "education" comes almost directly from French, (France across the sea, that is, not Dick), and means instruction and training the mental capacity.

When people were asked, "What does 'ed' in coed mean to you?" most of them wandered off with strange mutterings, such as, "Very educational, very."

Jud replied quickly, "Just plain 'Ed' is enough for me."

Lee Dymont gave a quick definition, "Coeducation is a term used in yearbooks and catalogues to denote a veritable Utopia of youthful emotions."

Larry Kimball paused a moment and said slowly, "Extremely edifying to those of lower mentality, I suppose."

In the midst of the queries we received a letter saying, "I don't get what you mean," signed by a Mr. Smoe R. Thenican-understand.

Barbara Pretty said, "Why it's perfectly edible, I just eat it up."

Eddie Swain politely informed us that we were speaking of the man he loved, and Biff Crockett was sure the "ed" stood for her editor.

An unconfirmed rumor reached us that Mr. Scott had heard our question of the month and remarked, "I don't know about that, but I have found that the most ardent coedders are sure to go down in history."

Bob Hamilton said sharply, "No spilkka da English," and headed for the pool table.

Dave Bennett said, "Bongo, bongo, bongo, coeducation is the thing for me."

Among the other replies to numerous to print, were such puns as, "It brings forth edicts and editorials—It keeps me on edge, etc."

The final word was given by David Kanaly, who said, "Coeducation is something that you want a lot of, but better not have too much, because then you won't have any at all. Ugh!"

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council, which meets under the guidance of Mr. Vachon, is an active organization which is proving itself to be extremely worthwhile. Regular meetings are held every Wednesday. Starting the year with the Freshman Class Party in October, it has been busy planning things for the student body ever since. It has been buying much needed records for the Tuesday and Friday night dances. At the time of the disastrous fires it sponsored a collection for Dr. Little's Cancer Laboratory. Last month it provided a movie for us, followed by a collection for the C.A.R.E. fund. In December it was responsible for the Christmas formal. Teaming up with the Athletic Association, it sold Eaton and Crew caps. All the visiting basketball teams have received welcome cards from the Student Council. One of its largest undertakings was the drawing up of a slate of rules for future elections in school clubs. The stu-

CLASSES COMPETE IN SNOW SCULPTURING

Included in the many carnival events is the ever-popular snow-sculpturing. This year, as before, each class has entered their results of nights of toil in the contest. Mr. Ireland, as usual, has shown enthusiasm and done some sculpturing on his own. The Freshmen class chose the place between the boys' dorm and the street as the site to show off their class talent. This class has been quite successful in producing a snow replica of a ski-award. The Sophomore class, located in a definitely advantageous spot—right in front of the main building—worked tirelessly several nights, changed their minds often and, finally, upon someone's suggestion that their pile of snow vaguely resembled a lion, decided to enter the product of their efforts as same. Kidding aside, Mr. Hill and co-workers have done a grand job on a difficult subject. The Juniors have produced a baby-grand piano in front of the boys' dorm. Last but not least the Senior class. The combined ability of this class with "Doc" Dysart in the lead has the Gould emblem in front of the girls' gym. With most effective blue coloring this class has succeeded in producing a marvelous likeness of the rather intricate subject.

Granting that all were well done, the verdict of the judges came, awarding first prize to the seniors.

Carnival Queen Crowned

Promptly at 10:13 the doors of the girls' gymnasium were opened and the members of the ski team proceeded slowly toward the throne. Following them came three attendants. Then came the queen, Barbara Dougherty, robed in maroon; her train was carried by the other three attendants.

When the queen was seated, Mr. Ireland placed the crown upon her head, thus naming her the 1948 carnival queen.

Finally, Dick Ireland, captain of the ski team, presented Barbara with an old-fashioned bouquet of flowers. To complete the coronation, the team members and the queen's attendants began the grand march which was led by Dick and Barbara. The 1948 carnival queen was born in Rumford, Maine. She graduated from grammar school in East Sumner, which is her present residence. Barbara has been at Gould for four years, during which time she has lived at the home of Dr. Boynton. After graduation, Barbara plans to attend business college. Barbara has been a member of this year's glee club, a member of the camera club for two years, a member of the current events organization, and has attended C. Y. P. Club for four years. She was vice-president of C. Y. P. Club last year, and is president this year.

For four years Barbara has taken an active part in sports. She has participated in hockey, making the class team as well as the varsity; volleyball, class team; badminton; and softball, class team; Barbara was also captain of the town basketball team formed this year.

Barbara has been a librarian for two years. Also she has appeared in the class skits for two years.

This is Barbara's first year as the Blue and Gold alumni and exchange editor. She is the sales manager of the Herald staff and sales manager for this year's three one-act plays.

The gracious reign of this popular, active girl as carnival queen is a fitting climax to her successful career here at Gould.

Under the Cupola

Carnival has been in the air in Gehring Hall for the past two weeks; as one passes thru the halls, evening dresses can be seen fluttering in and out of rooms and posing before mirrors. The familiar refrain of "I think I'll cut my straps off" or "I really need some slippers" can be heard.

It has been murmured about that Sally and Lyn celebrated their anniversary last Saturday night. Seems impossible that they've lived together all these years at Gould. Congratulations are due—or should we say consolations?

Second Hall is doomed for the rest of the year. Burl Ives is a nice man, Frankie, but one can take just so much!

A sudden array of newspapers can be seen in Gehring Hall these days. Whether they're after Dick's and Fritz's pictures or Marshall's and Croteau's names can't yet be determined.

The South Paris basketball game proved to be a very interesting event. It seems that Gould Academy is so expert that the girls have resorted to bringing their knitting to keep interested. Due to the fact that Castine is a cold place, this new fad will continue to occupy the bored ones.

It seems that everyone is busily knitting socks, mittens, stocking caps and what-nots lately. Especially what-nots, since sometimes its anyone's guess what the finished product will be. We can be sure that the boys won't freeze this year.

Every morning at 6:15 strange noises can be heard from the end of second hall. If you're stumped on these weird sounds Debbie may be able to solve your mysteries.

Steam can be seen pouring from third hall's windows lately. This is an advertisement of Lorenzen-Coombs Corporation. How to slim the figure in one easy lesson.

A few nights ago during one of Mrs. Goggin's famous bridge club meetings when Miss Stallwood once again was about to turn down a hand of all spades and hearts under she felt something slide down her neck. Upon investigating she was amazed to come upon a large hunk of plaster. Glancing up her eyes met a terrible sight. The ceiling was slowly but surely crumbling. Once again Mrs. Goggin let out an exasperated sigh, "Who ever invented jitterbugging? There's a time and place for everything." Hmmmmmm. Not on second hall!

Bill Beckett, that wild man from the Sunny State of California, tried to introduce to David Kanaly the merits of garlic. Bill, being used to the stuff, was far better able to stand the effects than David, who quickly retired to the solace of his room to settle an upset stomach. Meanwhile, a stale-green aroma followed Bill wherever he went; being an outcast from society for a few days. Bill agreed, under slight coercion, to abstain from herb of the Lillaceal family.

All you lovers of good, salty sea stories pull up an easy chair and get set—Dick "Pooch" Shields is off again. His wide repertoire includes anything from stories about fog so thick that you can't see your hand in front of your face to quarter mile long sea serpents which can smash boats to toothpicks with their tongues. Land Ho!

Does anyone know what has happened to the Sloan's Linniment? My back and legs are killing me; every muscle in my back is trying to strangle me at the same time. It must be those ski trips; these high-speed tows are getting the best of me. Oh! Ouch! These Sunday mornings are back wracking. To top it all off, push-ups, sit-ups, and other tortures are bestowed on us unlucky wretches under Joe's eagle eye.

Has anyone got any spare time? It doesn't have to be in first class condition. Many of us are in dire need of a couple of spare moments to write book-reports, Grandfather Themes, etc. Please contact this paper if you have some to share.

"Big Deal" Bayles is at the chess board again. Even Mr. Scott, who very seldom loses, finds the going rough. Big Deal has to look for greener pastures; all his opponents are worn out trying to keep one jump ahead of his Extracensory Perception (such voids!).

Seems as though, the Sophomore girls tried playing boys basketball one cold day and got a little, winded, might we say.

The CYP Club banquet went off rather well with the exception of the spoon symphony.

Sunday was an exceptional day for taking pictures as the sun shone brightly, and the wind took a seat in its easy chair, huh, Rae? It seems several experienced the fall into a snow bank, and how!

Some people certainly seem to get the breaks, if Betty can get them, why can't we all? The bell has saved a lot of necks—wow—apparently.

If you see Kimball floating gracefully through the corridors lately, and find no wings, you'll know it's ballet.

A new club for ladies has developed this winter. No, it's not sponsored by Miss Stallwood, even though it does sound that way. All the members are called "Hon" by each other, and includes such names as Oscar, Marvis and Johnny. The pass word is "sports" and the slogan is "Let's go to the gym this activity period!" Most of the meetings are held before school morning and noon in the back corner of the assembly hall, and over many an unsuspecting wastebasket.

After a male baby has grown out of long clothes and triangles and has acquired pants, freckles, and so much dirt that relatives do not dare to kiss him between meals, it becomes a BOY. A Boy is Nature's answer to that false belief that there is no such thing as perpetual motion. A boy can swim like a fish, run like a deer, climb like a squirrel, balk like a mule, bellow like a bull, eat like a pig, or act like a jackass, according to climatic conditions.

He is a piece of skin stretched over an appetite. A nose covered with smudges. He is called a tornado because he comes at the most unexpected places, and leaves everything a wreck behind him. He is a growing animal of superlative promise, to be fed, watered, and kept warm, a joy forever, a periodic nuisance, the problem of our times, the hope of a nation. Every boy born is evidence that God is not yet discouraged of man.

Were it not for boys, the newspapers would go unread and a thousand pictures shows would go bankrupt. Boys are useful in running errands with the aid of five or six adults. The zest with which a boy does an errand is equalled only by the speed of a turtle on a July day. The boy is a natural spectator. He watches parades, fires, fights, ball games, automobiles, boats, and airplanes with equal fervor, but will not watch the clock. The man who invents a clock that will stand on its head and sing a song when it strikes will win the undying gratitude of millions of families whose boys are forever coming to dinner about suppertime. Boys faithfully imitate their dads in spite of all efforts to teach them good manners. A boy who is not washed too often and is kept in a cool, quiet place after each accident will survive broken bones, hornets, swim-mings holes, fights, and nine beddings of pie. (By one who knows. J. L.)

Lee Dymont with the ever present trombone, Don Lord, a veteran trumpet player, and Bob Hogan, who plays the drums. Guy Emery attends rehearsals but doesn't seem to do anything so the only conclusion to draw is that he either likes (good) music or else he's the manager.

This is the first time that any enterprise of this sort has been tried at Gould. Here's to its success!

"I hear the southland singing— from field an' wood, an' dale—" The mellow, golden, melancholy of a negro spiritual lifts itself in throbbing music, setting earth and sky aglow with that weird magic that starts deep within your soul and manifests itself in warm salt tears, shed from a heart tender in spite of hardship, and loving in spite of blows.

"A negro Spiritual—what is this Vague feeling that sets me on fire, And kindles not within my breast

A longing to rise higher, higher— Above the ache of mundane woes, Above my futile human fears, Above my centeredness on self— And salts my cheeks with human tears? A mellow monotone of sound From mellow throats and aching hearts

Deep throbbing through the pulsing night Flows swifter, fuller as it starts Its endless life of endless power—

Its moving, melancholy swell— its golden chorused euphony— Triumphant power, known so well

To those who know the Southland best, And hear and love the Negro songs:

The chants that show the deep despair That smother souls all bruised with wrongs They don't deserve; or hopeful still

Of better lands and better life, The buoyant rhythms float and ring.

To chants that laud surcease of strife, In some celestial, far-off land Where all is goodness, light, and love,

Where work is over, trials gone, And all God's faithful reign above.

Or yet the beating rhythmic sound Of working songs; the wild quick swing

Of some primeval, savage urge That through the ages seems to bring

The magic of the jungle's heart, The mystic wonder of the home

From whence the Negro slave first came To work on some plantation's loam.

But swelling through the stygian dark, Deep-throated chords become the core

Of all you've ever thought to be, And all you'll be forever more. The music takes the soul in hand,

And flies with it toward the sky, Full, throbbing, deeper,—till it's gone,

An echoing, breeze-borne, fading sigh.

Farmer tallied up 10 points for the Seagulls, but the Gould court men were too much for the Salties.

BETHEL GIRLS BEGIN BASKETBALL SEASON

The girls' basketball team at Bethel started its season a few weeks ago. This year the team has about twelve girls who will play with other schools around Bethel.

The team has had a good start with Barbara Dougherty as captain, Connie Coolidge, Barbara Learned and Carol Swan as strong forwards. Taking the position as guards are: Barbara Dougherty, as left guard; Doris Wermenchuk, as right guard; and Kathleen Brooks as center. The team also has a good group playing as substitutes. They are: Betty McAllister, Norma Bean, Wilma Croteau, Barbara Farrar, Barbara Keenan, and Phyllis Merrill.

The team has not played many games yet, but the two games which they played at Bryant Pond with Woodstock High showed that it has a set of strong players, for they came through with the fine score of 44-42. A short time later, they beat Woodstock, 48-43.

The credit of winning such close games should be given to Carol Swan who made most of the points for our team in both games with Woodstock as well as to the whole team.

With this good start, the team should have an interesting and successful season.

ENTHUSIASTIC GROUP JOINS SKI CLASSES

The recreational ski classes have again started out the year of winter sport with a lot of eager enthusiasts eager to do or die in the attempt to learn to ski. The classes are, as always, 1A, 1B, 2, and 3. Class 4 is for those lucky individuals who can make it, and doesn't function very actively, as all those who can make it need only practice. In fact, as yet no one is or has been in it. Mr. Myers is again instructing, with the able assistance of five-year man Don Powers, who does an admirable job with class two and three, teaching stem turns and general technique.

The skiers have had two expeditions to ski tows so far this year, the first to Bridgton on January tenth, and the second supposedly to Pinkham Notch, January 31. In the afternoon of this day the skiers went to the tow at Gorham. A generally enjoyable time, despite getting soaked, with the confident showing themselves to best advantage, and the less gifted one doing their level best to keep upright.

Ski classes have enjoyed good weather for the whole of the skiing season so far, with powder snow just at the right time, it seems, and lots of good clear days in between for the best skiing available. Those who hope for a late spring will be granted their wish, as things look now, and according to the weatherman, to say nothing of the good old dependable ground-hog.

A couple of snow-shoe enthusiasts have been on the slopes and around the campus. So far they have braved the bores of the recreational skiers.

GOULD LOSES TO KUA

The Huskies met their second defeat of the season at the hands of Kimball Union Academy, January 24, by a score of 390-360. Genn, Howard, and Way of K. U. The only closely contested event was the slalom, won by Genn, with Bennett and Ireland second and third respectively.

GOULD TAKES SECOND IN FIRST SKI MEET

Racing for the first time this season the ski team took second place in a three way meet against Kennett High of Conway and Laconia High on Cranmore Mountain, Saturday, Jan. 17, 1948.

Church, Pratt and Patch led Kennett High to victory in the two events although Dick Ireland took first in Slalom and tied for first in Downhill. The only other Gould men who placed in the first ten were Bennett who was 6th in Slalom and Norton who was 8th in Downhill.

Laconia was only two points behind Gould in the final score with Moony scoring high for them.

In spite of the lopsided score the Gould skiers looked well on the unfamiliar slopes. When the jumpers and cross-country men get into action the team will be well balanced.
